PRELIMINARY REPORTS
HOUSING UNIT COUNTS

September 1960

HC(PI)-1

United States

A record increase of 12.5 million in the number of housing units occurred in the 10 years preceding April 1, 1960, according to the preliminary count for the 1960 Census of Housing. The increase for the previous decade was only 8.7 million. The preliminary total of housing units for 50 States and the District of Columbia is 58.6 million compared to 46.1 million in 1950, an increase of 27 percent.

The region showing the greatest relative growth was the West with a 43-percent increase compared with a 23-percent increase for the Northeast and North Central Regions. The greatest absolute increase, 3.6 million, occurred in the South.

The two geographic divisions in the West led all divisions in the growth of the housing supply. The 45-percent increase in the Pacific Division was more than three times as great as the 13-percent increase in the East South Central Division.

The preliminary count was larger in all 50 States, ranging from a 2-percent increase in Arkansas to a 99-percent gain in Alaska. One other State, Florida, increased its housing supply more than 90 percent and three others increased more than 50 percent--Nevada, 82 percent; Arizona, 73 percent; and California, 53 percent. The housing inventory of 11 additional States increased more rapidly than the national average. The increases in the 16 fastest growing States, which account for only a third of our housing supply, comprised almost half of the total increase in the Nation. These States include the seven southwestern States, Arizona, California, Colorado, Nevada, New Mexico, Texas, and Utah; Connecticut and New Jersey in the Northeast Region; Delaware, Florida, Maryland, and Virginia on the East Coast; Michigan and the two new States, Alaska and Hawaii. Only two States had less than a 5-percent increase--Arkansas, 2 percent, and Mississippi, 3 percent.

The pattern of growth in the States in the 1950-1960 decade differed only slightly from the pattern in the previous decade. In general, the same States in both decades had an increase above the national average. Four of the five States leading in housing growth in the past decade also were the leaders in 1940 to 1950--Florida, Arizona, Nevada, and California. Similarly, of the States that increased the least between 1950 and 1960, three, Mississippi, North Dakota, and South Dakota, were in that same category between 1940 and 1950.

PRELIMINARY REPORTS

HOUSING UNIT COUNTS FOR PLACES
OF 10,000 INHABITANTS OR MORE

August 1960

HC(P1)-26

Mississippi

On April 1, 1960, there were 630,222 housing units in the State. This preliminary figure includes both occupied and vacant units. This was an increase of 20,893 units, or 3 percent, over the 609,329 units reported in the 1950 Census.

The 1960 counts for the State and places of 10,000 inhabitants or more are based on preliminary tabulations from the 1960 Census of Housing. These figures may differ from the counts included in the final reports. The 1950 counts were published in Vol. I, General Characteristics, 1950 Census of Housing.

This series includes reports for the United States, the States and the District of Columbia (numbered in alphabetical order), Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands.

An outline of the 1960 Census of Housing publication program can be obtained free of charge from the Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D.C., or any U.S. Department of Commerce Field Office.

HOUSING UNIT COUNTS FOR PLACES
OF 10,000 INHABITANTS OR MORE

August 1960

HC(PI)-39

Oregon

On April 1, 1960, there were 621,240 housing units in the State. This preliminary figure includes both occupied and vacant units. This was an increase of 97,237 units, or 19 percent, over the 524,003 units reported in the 1950 Census.

The 1960 counts for the State and places of 10,000 inhabitants or more are based on preliminary tabulations from the 1960 Census of Housing. These figures may differ from the counts included in the final reports. The 1950 counts were published in Vol. I, General Characteristics, 1950 Census of Housing.

This series includes reports for the United States, the States and the District of Columbia (numbered in alphabetical order), Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands.

An outline of the 1960 Census of Housing publication program can be obtained free of charge from the Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D.C., or any U.S. Department of Commerce Field Office.

HC(P1)-54

Guam

On April 1, 1960, there were 12,391 housing units in the Territory of Guam. This preliminary figure includes both occupied and vacant units. Since this is the first Census of Housing in Guam, comparisons with previous census counts are not available.

The 1960 count for Guam is based on preliminary tabulations from the 1960 Census of Housing and may differ from the count included in the final reports.

This series includes reports for the United States, the States and the District of Columbia (numbered in alphabetical order), Puerto Rico, Guam, and the Virgin Islands.

An outline of the 1960 Census of Housing publication program can be obtained free of charge from the Bureau of the Census, Washington 25, D.C., or any U.S. Department of Commerce Field Office.
